

Whos the thinker, behind your process of thought: Toolkit for the Real World (Whos the thinker, behind your process of thought Book 1)

We all have aspects of our lives that are working well. However, there are areas that could benefit from structural building blocks that provide coping mechanisms to address unanswered questions and deep rooted problems that constantly resurface in the screen of our mind. Almost every waking moment of every day you make choices and decisions.

What you get into, gets into you and influences the outcome. This series of tool-kit for the real world volumes will endeavour to explore, discover, identify and arrive at a plan of action for the access code to personal and professional success. This information can enable you to become fully prepared for the on-going daily challenge of managing and resolving, negative emotionally (psychological) based influences and disentangle past/present conflicts that inhibit inter/personal, professional, development and produce clarity of mind, renewed purpose, and a desire to rediscover the My-self that was fractured through a misunderstanding of why people are the way they are... All the content throughout the Toolkit series of books is applicable to the seven fundamental structures which influence our world and determine our ultimate destiny namely: Family, Education, Religion, Media, Arts/entertainment, Economy, and Government. In our attempt to grapple with constant environmental and technological changes, I believe we need to be mindful of how state of mind forms personal opinion, produces our belief system and shapes identity. This is an opportunity to discover meaningful information that can help you to discover something[s] you may never have considered before and enrich your lifestyle with sustained inner joy, peace and contentment.
