

Lynnia (The Norton Sisters Series Book 5)

Lynnia has always been the type of person to speak first and ask for forgiveness later. She has never been one to hold her tongue for anyone except for one person. The one person that she needs to speak her mind and voice her opinion to is the one person she can never find the right words to say. Dario Anderson has been the male in Lynnia's world for as long as any of the members of the Norton family could remember. The ongoing relationship that they've had has been a platonic one even though every member of the family could clearly see what they have never said to one another. When Dario appears to take an interest in someone that Lynnia feels is all wrong for him, mainly because she's not her, their unspoken truce is called off. Lynnia comes out fighting, but fighting the wrong party. Will her no holds barred approach drive Dario into the arms of the woman she doesn't want him with? Or will he easily see through her antics and they finally come together as they should have been all along?
