

Celebrity Bake Book

Celebrities, chefs and politicians are contributing their favourite baking recipes for the Celebrity Bake Book which supports of The Ben Kinsella Trust. Foreword by respected British cookery writer Mary Berry. Celebrity contributors include Glynis Barber, Nigella Lawson, Arlene Philips, Calum Best and Pearl Lowe. The book is the idea of Linda Morris and is being published by Accent Press who previously produced Food For Heroes (The Official Help for Heroes Cook Book) and East Meets West which raised money for the Tsunami relief. Ben Kinsella was knifed to death in June 2008 in Islington. He was just 16 years old. His sister, Brooke Kinsella (who is an actress and was in Eastenders) and her family created The Ben Kinsella Trust to promote the growing problem that is knife crime. The trust aims to educate children as young as primary school age in the difference between right and wrong and against ever picking up a weapon, be it through peer pressure, fear or simply believing it is cool. The Trust also hopes, one day, to build a youth centre in Bens name in Islington to help protect, support and nurture the kids on our streets.
