MAKING UP STORIES - Create fun times and magical moments with your child making up your own stories from scratch. Time spent making up stories with, and for, children is huge fun and extremely beneficial for the imagination, development and relationship of both child and adult. It is an empowering activity for those who don't find reading aloud very easy. But even excellent readers can lack the confidence to get started. Making Up Stories uses the basic building blocks of storytelling (who, what, where, why, when), enlivened with inspirational suggestions, to awaken the readers imagination. They'll soon be making up their own stories. With the help of delightful illustrations, the booklet points out sources of inspiration that are already at your fingertips and you and your child will soon be creating (and even keeping a record of) a story world of your very own.
