

Seeing beyond Seeing: Wisdom without Borders

Through a selection of twelve parables from Buddhist, Hindu, Islamic, and Christian sources followed by reflective discussions and original poetry the author invites the reader to explore a compassionate spirituality that transcends religious boundaries. The stories are full of paradox, irony, and humor. They are both deconstructive and constructive regarding many core issues in our lives. The reflective discussions seek to unfold these dimensions both within and beyond their original contexts in a way that furthers their relevance for a spiritual wisdom without borders. The authors poems that conclude each section attempt to capture a motif or a sentiment in each discussion. As a whole the book seeks to overcome the dividing walls within us and among us as a world community. Where love bridges fear trust grows like a wildflower, unconscious of its delicate beauty, unashamed of its muddy feet rooted in our common earth.
